Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Thursday 24 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
East warm, bright start Thursday. Otherwise rain feeding from northwest.

Today:
Sunny morning and early afternoon in east and a sunny start in central areas too, but cloud and outbreaks of rain in Argyll, the Northwest and Isles turning heavier then extending to most areas later.

Tonight:
The far west mainly dry. Elsewhere cloudy with occasional rain this evening, then central and western areas becoming mainly dry overnight.

Friday:
Rain gradually becoming confined to the southeast with most other areas dry with some sunny spells developing in the north.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
A lot of dry weather with some sunny spells, and becoming warmer. However there will be a few cloudier spells in the northwest.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.